ASHES CAUSE BLAZE.

Tuesday night the inhabitants—part of them at least—were awakened by fire alarm being sounded. Soon there were a number of people on their way to the fire scene, which was at the academy, some thought that it was the academy building, but upon arriving there it proved to be the wood pile. Some ashes had been thrown out near the wood pile and they had ignited chips then spread into the woodpile. The wood supply was completely destroyed and a good portion of the fence on the north side of the academy was burned, but with the good work of the bucket brigade the flames were put under control and finally put out without further damage. This should be a warning to those in charge of the academy and more caution used in the future.
